Arsenic Survey -- Yellowknife

Attached are two copies of an introductory description of the health survey carried out at Yellowknife, Northwest Territories. It describes the survey procedure, indicates the extent of the coverage achieved, illustrates certain population characteristics and discusses some of the difficulties encountered. This outline will be modified to serve as an introduction to a full report.

We are devoting all possible resources available to us in the Division to completing this report. At present, the clinical survey data are being reviewed and analyzed.

I apologize for the delay in forwarding this preliminary report to you. With the incursions made by vacation time on the availability of our staff, it has been very difficult, if not impossible, to carry out all our undertakings in the time we had allotted for that purpose.

A. J. de Villiers per A. Z.
